A NOTE FROM PAYSAGE

NIGHT OF FIRE

THIS NIGHT WASN'T MEANT TO BE

Looking at Notre Dame in flames, the emotion was too strong, the sadness too intense and the prayers too urgent. And to think that I was there the day before preaching under those thousand-year-old keystones where I was ordained almost thirty years ago. I cannot tell you how much pain I feel at the thought of these happy memories gone up in smoke. Would I admit to you, however, that my consternation was quickly replaced by a kind of captivated recognition?

Words that I had always wanted to hear seem to have sprung up like a miracle from this fatal event. During these anxious hours, it seems to me, indeed, that the old Gallic rooster has awoken from his torpor. How many wonderful comments have the media relayed in a persistent and uninterrupted manner! On the part of tourists, bystanders, journalists, politicians, historians, ecclesiastics, aesthetes, or firefighters...people of all ages, conditions, origins, and beliefs. A mysterious communion seemed at last to reign over the people of France, who for months, had so sadly shown the world their fragmentation and fractures. This unity, which a presidential message, foreseen the same evening, would probably not have succeeded in renewing, our Lady, The Holy Virgin has fulfilled before our very eyes.

What if it was, once again, the supernatural intervention of the Mother of God that gave back to our dear old country the élan of hope?

Of course, there is the infinite pain of seeing those desolated ruins, the irreparable loss of so many works of art and the despondency of the colossal task of reconstruction. Yet, in this Holy Week that begins with the victory of Easter, Christians believe that from every evil, God can bring forth good. From what account is this disaster the promise and the beginning? These stones, which the Lord told us that they will cry out, do we not hear them, still smoking, calling us to awaken and to the faith?

Notre Dame de Paris Musical

GIGI'S MAY RADIO

Notre-Dame de Paris is a sung-through French and Québécois musical which debuted on 16 September 1998 in Paris. It is based upon the novel Notre-Dame de Paris (The Hunchback of Notre-Dame) by the French novelist Victor Hugo. The music was composed by Riccardo Cocciante (also known as Richard Cocciante) and the lyrics are by Luc Plamondon.

Since its debut, it has been professionally played in Belgium, Canada, China, France, Italy, Japan, Lebanon, Luxembourg, Poland, Russia, Singapore, South Korea, Spain, Switzerland, Taiwan, Turkey, United Kingdom and United States, and has been translated into eight languages (English, Spanish, Italian, Russian, Korean, Flemish, Polish, and Kazakh). A shorter version in English was performed in 2000 in Las Vegas, Nevada (United States) and a full-length London production, also in English, ran for seventeen months. Several songs from the show, such as "Vivre", "Belle" and "Le temps des cathédrales", have been released as singles with a huge success in French-speaking countries.

Notre-Dame de Paris, according to the Guinness Book of Records, had the most successful first year of any musical ever. The score has been recorded at least seven times to date (2007): the original French concept album, which featured Israeli singer Achinoam Nini (aka Noa) as Esmeralda was followed by a live, complete recording of the original Paris cast.
