12 LITTLE-KNOWN TABLE MANNERS FOR ANY HOLIDAY TABLE

- Passing Dishes: Pass serving dishes to the right. Never pass them across the table, as this disrupts the meal's flow.
- Serving Gravy: Use the ladle in the gravy boat. The spout is for resting the ladle, not pouring, which helps prevent spills and keeps things tidy.
- Salt and Pepper: Always pass the salt and pepper together, even if only one is requested. This courtesy ensures both are accessible to everyone.
- Identify Your Glass: Prevent mix-ups by using a charm or tag on your glass, especially at larger gatherings or dinner parties with many guests.
- Dress Appropriately: Remove jerseys, face paint, or costumes before eating. Dressing neatly shows respect for your host and fellow guests.
- Conversation: Avoid controversial or heated topics to keep the mood positive for everyone. Focus on light conversation to create a welcoming atmosphere.
- When to Start: Wait for the host to start eating or give permission before you begin. It shows respect and attentiveness to their cues.
- Dirty Dishes: Do not stack plates at the table. Let the host or helpers clear them, unless specifically asked to assist with cleanup duties.
- Devices: Keep phones and other devices off the table during the meal. This helps everyone focus on conversation and enjoy being together.
- Hygiene: If you need to blow your nose, excuse yourself and leave the table. Never use your napkin; always use a tissue in the restroom.
- Patience: Be patient with slow servers; offer help if appropriate, but never rush them. Kindness and understanding make the meal more enjoyable for all.
- Gratitude: Always use "please" and "thank you" to show appreciation. Expressing gratitude fosters a warm and positive dining atmosphere.

THE HOST GIFT DILEMMA

WHAT TO BRING WHEN THEY SAY "JUST BRING YOURSELF"

The true mark of a sophisticated guest is navigating the host's kind dismissal: "just bring yourself." Thoughtful guests know to arrive with a gesture of gratitude.

For a home embracing the art de vivre and American design sensibility, your gift should reflect this effortless French-American acculturation. It must be thoughtful, design-conscious, and never intrusive, showing an understanding of both cultures' understated elegance.

Here are three Paysage-approved options that elegantly bridge European tradition with modern American hospitality, ensuring your gesture feels both memorable and gracious:

The Perfect Morning Ritual

A truly gracious gift anticipates the host's post-party recovery. Present a beautiful, classic French-style striped tea towel (torchon), a practical nod to French kitchen elegance, alongside a bag of high-quality, locally roasted American coffee beans.

It is a dual gesture of aesthetic beauty and practical comfort, ensuring their morning is as beautiful and restorative as their evening was.

The Elevated Cocktail Hour

Elevate their bar cart with a sophisticated blend of French tradition and mixology trend. Pair a sleek, linen cocktail napkin set with artisanal American bitters or a French apéritif like Lillet.

Alternatively, gift an aged red wine for future enjoyment, acknowledging the host's style without demanding immediate service or disrupting their personal entertaining preferences.

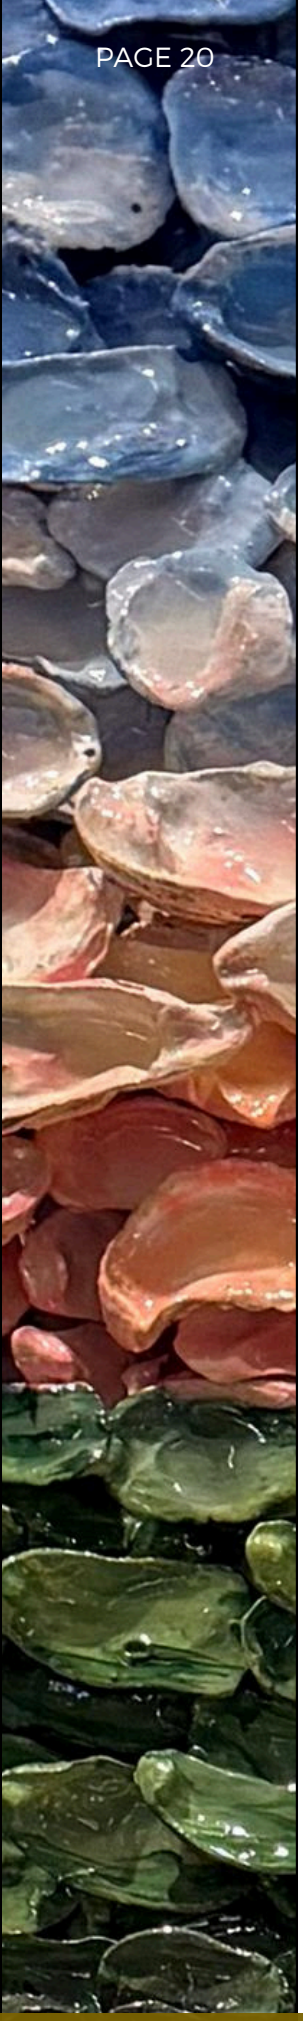

A Bespoke Sweet Treat

If bringing food, ensure it's ready to serve and requires no effort from the host.

A box of exquisite macarons or delicate financiers from a renowned local patisserie makes a thoughtful and elegant gift, offering a moment of pure, guilt-free indulgence, perfectly suited for sharing or savoring quietly the next day.

THE GIFT DILEMMA

HOW TO BUY A GIFT FOR THE PERSON WHO HAS EVERYTHING

You know that person. The one who sends their thank you card before you've even figured out what to get them. They have the gadgets, the designer everything, and probably a storage unit full of things they "might need later."Seriously, what do you get the person who owns three of everything? Stop the madness!

This year, skip the gift card panic and give them the one thing they can't buy with a quick online click: soulful, original art.

Think about it: art isn't just fancy wall candy. It's a personality amplifier, a conversation starter, and proof that you put real thought into their gift (not just the two-day shipping cutoff). When everything else feels mass-produced, a unique piece of art feels personal and enduring, something that will truly stand the test of time and memories.

Ready to score major gifting points? Head over to Paysage Home and dive into the Paysage Art Collection.We're talking gorgeous, unique pieces, many featuring incredible talent right here from North Carolina artists. It's a gift that supports the local community, looks stunning, and, most importantly, doesn't require batteries or assembly instructions.

Plus, each piece tells a story your recipient will cherish for years to come.

Find your masterpiece at Paysage Home.

THE HISTORY & TRADITION OF LA BUCHE DE NÖEL

December has arrived, and with it, promises of snowy holidays and warming frozen hands around a soothing mug of hot chocolate. As Parisians and small town dwellers alike purchase their freshly-cut Christmas trees, the anticipatory delight in getting together en famille is starting to show.

French family meals are known for three things: lasting hours on end, beautiful and meticulously set tables, and traditional holiday desserts.

Christmas dessert in France can only mean one thing: La Buche de Nöel.

The tradition of the Buche de Nöel dates back to medieval times, one of many pagan rites competing with Christmas traditions. Depending on the region and its various beliefs, salt, wine, or holy water were sprinkled atop the log before lighting it on fire. Once lit on Christmas Eve, the log is supposed to burn for at least three days for good luck, filling the home with a festive, comforting glow.

Little by little, traditional hearths disappeared in homes, replaced by wood-burning stoves. With no center stage left for the Christmas log ritual, smaller logs were placed as a decorative reminder on tabletops, and it was only a matter of time before some intrepid and imaginative soul realized that it would be a lot nicer to eat the log rather than simply watching it.

From this tradition, La Buche de Nöel as a dessert was born.

Taste the best of LA BÛCHE DE NÖEL

There are thousands of variations on La Buche de Nöel throughout France, but this step-by-step recipe is the simplest version for beginners: Start by making a jelly roll cake and buttercream. Roll it all up and frost with silky ganache. Run a knife through the frosting to create a textured yule log effect. You can then add diminutive decoration such as little mushrooms made of meringue or butter cream and some chocolate Christmas trees.

You can now order your Buche de Nöel from Far From France. They offer two different flavors, Red Velvet and Chocolate Raspberry. There is a limited number of each kind so reserve yours now!

RED VELVET YULE LOG

GENOISE SPONGE CAKE

Serves 5 people

- 1/3 cup unsalted butter
- 3 large eggs
- 2/3 cup sugar
- 2/3 cup all-purpose flour
- 1/8 cup corn flour

HERE'S HOW

1. Preheat the oven to 350 degrees.
2. Melt the butter and let it cool.
3. Break the egg and add the sugar in the mixture.
4. Then warm up the beaten eggs to 60 degrees above a water bath (Bain Marie) so the sugar will melt into the eggs.
5. Add some red coloring to the mixture and beat the eggs with the sugar for about 11 minutes on medium speed and 5 minutes on high speed to achieve a Ruban consistency.
6. Mix the flour and the corn flour together in another bowl.
7. Then add the flour to the egg mixture and mix it all gently with a spatula.

CREAM CHEESE FILLING

- 3/4 cup, cream cheese at room temperature
- 7/8 cup, powdered sugar
- 1 teaspoon, pure vanilla extract
- 1/4 cup, mascarpone cheese

1. Beat the cream cheese on medium speed and slowly add the powdered sugar.
2. Add the vanilla and the mascarpone and beat at high speed for 2 minutes.
3. If the mixture is too thick, you can add a splash of milk.

8. Pour the mixture on a sheet pan to achieve ½ inch thickness.
9. Cook the genoise for about 20 to 25 minutes.
10. When cooled down to room temperature, cut the genoise to a large rectangle 12" x 10".
11. Apply a generous amount of the filling and roll the genoise. Add more filling on top of the cake, make your own decoration and let it cool down in the refrigerator overnight.
12. Voila!

2026 DESIGN TRENDS

2026 marks a decisive pivot from rigid, cool austerity. The dominant theme is creating soulful sanctuaries, homes prioritizing restorative comfort and quality, emphasizing personal history, warm materials, and handcrafted artistry.

Modern Heritage & Craftsmanship

The trend blends classic architecture with sculptural, handcrafted furnishings. It prioritizes craftsmanship and natural materials, creating deeply personal spaces with layered texture. This defines a quieter luxury rooted in place and memory.

Curved Forms & Kitchen Color

Kitchens prioritize bold color or warm wood. Curved forms like arches soften rigid lines, promoting natural, emotional flow over traditional austerity.
